As China becomes an increasingly important participant in the global economy and as the manufacturing and financial sectors become more globalized, the need for business professionals skilled in communicating in the Chinese language is growing. The W. P. Carey business degree in Chinese language and culture prepares you to meet this demand, with the skills and understanding needed to succeed in China and beyond. The business degree in Chinese language and culture gives you the chance to participate in ASU’s Chinese Language Flagship program — part of a national initiative to reinvent the way U.S. college students learn languages, with 27 programs at 22 colleges and universities nationwide.

Whether you choose to complete your capstone abroad in China and receive the Flagship designation, or complete your capstone here at the W. P. Carey School of Business, you will attain proficiency in Mandarin Chinese and develop a global perspective to complement and add value to your business degree.
