Margaret Jarvis

Margaret is a Career Coach for the Business Career Center where she works with Business Exploratory, Sustainability, Tourism, Retail Management, Urban Policy, and undecided business students. Prior to joining W.P. Carey, Margaret worked in ASU’s University Career Services as a Senior Career Advisor at the Tempe campus. Margaret received a Bachelor of Science in Psychology degree from the University of Arizona, and a Master of Counseling degree from Arizona State University. Margaret is originally from Arizona, but enjoys traveling and has visited multiple countries including Honduras, Turkey, Greece and Spain. Margaret has worked in a variety of roles in higher education and counseling and enjoys helping students identify their interests and helping them connect their interests and aspirations to a future career path.

What do you like about your job?
I really enjoy working with students to assist them in determining their best career path and having a positive impact on the decision they make. Hearing from students months after working with them that the time we spent collaborating and working toward a decision was beneficial in their career path is very gratifying.

Do you have any advice to offer?
It is never too early to gain experience and gather information in your field of interest. This can include spending time and having discussions with people in the industry, seeking volunteer opportunities, or even exploring your interests through student organization involvement.
